

Noise restrictions should be based on an absolute scale, not a relative one. 100 decibels from any twin seater Cessna causes the same environmental impact as from a 747. Any other interpretation is unscientific and not merited